TEXT—"And are built upon the foundation of the spoulde and prophets. Jesus Christ himself being the hist corner some."—Epb. 1, 20.

The comparison of the Christian church

The most complete Grate in the market. It The comparison of the Christian church to a temple or building is one that we frequently meet with in the Scripture. Thus we find that in addition to to the comparison which St. Paul institutes here, he applies the same metaphor in the First Corinthians, 3 ix-x, "For we are laborers together with God; ye are God's huisbandly; ye are God's building. According to the world. can be seen in operation in Mr. Frank Coen's fine residence on the Island. Call and examye are God's building. According to the grace of God which is given unto me as a wise master builder, I have laid the foundation and another buildeth thereon, bu let him take heed how he buildeth." Such a comparison was probably instituted because the Jewish mind would frequently revert to the Temple at Jerusalem, and because of its beauty, its costliness and its sacredness it would be looked upon

> Is mind to speak of the church as the temple or residence of God.
> Now the apostle here states that the doctrines which the prophets and apostles taught form the basis upon which the church rests. The Christian church, he asserts, is not founded on philosophy or culture; it is not based on traditions or homan laws, neither does it appeal to men by reason of its venerable antiquity; but it is founded on the great truths which God has given to men. We learn also that nothing is to be regarded as a fundamental part of the Christian system, or as binding part of the Christian system, or as binding upon the conscience, which cannot be found in the prophets and apostles, that tound in the prophets and aposties, that is, the Holy Scriptures.

The apostle also states that Jesus Christ is the chief corner stone. We all know how the corner stone is the most important in every building, and upon which the whole edifice mainly depends. This symbol of the corner stone is applied to the Lord Jesus Christ because not only the whole edifice rests upon him, but also the foundation laid by "prophets and apostles." Were it not for this fact the structure would not be sustained, and it would fall into decay and ruin. Let us therefore rejoice in the fact that not only the Christfall into decay and ruin. Let us therefore rejoice in the fact that not only the Christian church, but also the Holy Scriptures are all founded on the Divine authority, and have the Divine sanction to support them, as well as the Holy Spirit to accompany them. The church so built has been described by Christian writers from a very early period as the church universal or catholic. It is described by the apostle in these words, "In whom, that is in Christ Jesus, the whole family in heaven and earth is named." He includes, therefore, all believers, whether in heaven or on earth, in the oac great family of God. This is the church universal, the catholic church. is the church universal, the catholic shurch. The Schate was not in session on Saturday.

How is the Camden contempt resolution to be disposed of? Like the Potter Committee, it seems to be an elephant on the name of Rome head themselves to be in the truest sense, "Catholic," because they adhered most conscientiously to the teachings of Holy Scripture. And the true test of the Catholicity of every church is the manner in which she holds and teaches the written word. The most ancient Protestant document that we have, expresses this fact very clearly and forcibly. This is the Catechism composed by Zachary Ursin, approved by Frederic III, by the Reformed Church of the Netherland, by the synod of Dut, and the Reformed Churches of Germany, and which was very generally used both in Scotland and England in the 18th century. In answer to the question what believest thou of the Catholic Church, this document states "I believe that the son of God doth by his Holy spirit and by His word gather unto himself out of all mankind, from the beginning of the world unto the end a congregation chosen to everlasting life, agreeing in the true faith, and doth maintain and preserve the same."

Yes, this is the Church Catholic; and the school by the scheme to induce the consider favorably the scheme to induce the considerat The members draw their per diem with great promptness and regularity.

The review of Col. Miller's regiment attracted a large number of ladies to the Collegion of the school book bill, which was discussed on Saturday.

Yes, this is the Church Catholic; and one of its blessed and glorious distinctions is that it comprehends true living Christis that it comprehends true living Christians wherever they are or however distinguished. He is the true "Catholic" who concisentiously seeks to fulfill the ends of spiritual worship, who longs and seeks for the healing of the breaches of Zion. Then when we realize this we shall have the same care one for another.

But where this spirit is not, even though men should for a time present an outward aspect of unity, yet there is schism, schism of the worst kind, a miserable, wretched and cold alienation of hearts.
